2. A workshop on Business Idea Development and launching a Startup (13th August, 2019)

A workshop on Business Idea Development and launching a Startup was conducted. This workshop was a platform for students to learn how to generate business ideas, how you can evaluate them and identify those with adequate potential. This endeavour was conducted with the hope that it will kindle the flame we are hoping will burn bright in the near future on the horizon in the form of a lucrative business idea.

The faculty for the workshop CA Vaibhav Jain was unable to conduct the event as he suddenly took ill. Hence, the sessions were conducted by Dr. Mariam Noronha, Coordinator, Startup and Innovation Cell, Ness Wadia College of Commerce, Pune.

The first half of the workshop shed light on various internal and external sources of business ideas and how to identify business ideas. Identification of viable business ideas through SWOT analysis, environmental scanning, research, trend spotting and problem identification were explained with examples of Caratlane, Tinder, Bumble, ID Fresh Foods, PlaceofOrogin, Flavoursofmycity, etc.

The second half of the workshop enlightened students about the concept of a startup, how to determine whether a company is a startup, key determinants, etc. The Lean Canvas Model was also discussed with examples.

Number of Students Attended 62

Dr. Marima Noronha conducting the session and students sharing their Business ideas

3. Arts association

July 2019

A Collage making activity for third year students was conducted. The target audience was all TY students of Business Entrepreneurship. Students learned to use images to communicate ideas and information through pictures. This started by choosing the right pictures, planning space on a piece of chart paper, using minimum words to tell a story with those pictures.

19th August 2019

A workshop on Creative Thinking for Business was conducted in association with the Startup and Innovation Cell of the College. This workshop aimed at orienting students to think out of the box and tap their creative side. The workshop was scheduled to be conducted by Ms. Durga Tilak who could not come on the day due to ill health. Hence, the workshop was conducted by Dr. Mariam Noronha, Coordinator, Startup and Innovation Cell, Ness Wadia College of Commerce, Pune.

The workshop addressed 3 main questions-

1. What is creativity?
2. Am I creative?
3. How can I acquire creative skills?

The first question was answered by considering the fact that creativity is not the sole preserve of artists and designers. Everyone is creative, some of us are just more creatively inclined. However, all of us can develop our creativity. Several examples from day to day life and business were quoted.

Students were given 3 exercises- drawing each other, the 30 circles challenge and a case study "Marooned in the Desert" which set them thinking and got them excited and involved in the learning process. Simple exercises were shared which students can do on a daily basis and develop their creativity- keeping an idea book, drawing circles, mandalas, meditation, writing are simple practices that help us to become more creative and can be practiced by all.

26th September, 2019

Art for Self Discovery, a set of activities aimed at enhancing the understanding of the self and coping skills was organized under the aegis of the Arts Association. Four exercises were conducted in which students learned to introspect and understand where they stand on the ladder of self-development.

To begin with the Two Circles exercise in which students drew one big circle and a small circle inside it. In the small circle students were asked to list what they could control and in the outer ring, things beyond their control. This helped students to understand that we can only control ourselves, how we respond and relate to things, we cannot control other people, even circumstances and things like the weather. We do not need to worry about what we cannot control, what's inside matters.

The next exercise comprised listing people, animals/things without which one cannot imagine life. Finally, we all realized that little things matter, most people listed friends, family, pets, music, books, laughter as things they could not imagine life without.

Thereafter students did an exercise called "Watch me bloom". They drew a hexagon which represented a centre of a flower and petals extending from each side of the hexagon. Inside the hexagon they wrote something that they wanted to improve on like being able to play a musical instrument well. The petals were filled with different steps to achieve this- join a music class, practice, buy the instrument, self-learning by watching videos, attending class regularly, working to improve.

Finally, the session concluded with students making a coping shield. A paper cut out of a shield was given to each one of them. They filled the shield with ways in which they could cope when stressed out. Taking deep breaths, exercising, listening to music, spending time in nature, watching a movie, etc were some ways students listed. They were encouraged to keep the shield like a bookmark or reminder to help them cope.

The session was conducted by Dr. Mariam Noronha.

Number of students attended: 37

9th December, 2019

Ms. Munira Baghdadi, Senior Graphic Designer, WhyNine Design Studio spoke on a Designer's Perspective on Brand Building and Brand Identity; this talk was organized in association with the Startup and Innovation Cell of the College. She shed light on the importance of brand identity beyond a logo and the need for humanizing brands.

Step1-: Plan/Idea-: she said whichever name plan a proper design for it.

Step2-: Target audience- :example pubg.This game targeted people who were looking for battleground virtually with easy access.

Step3-: Ultimate market perception- : example Nike by observing a tick mark (swoosh) people understand it's the brand Nike.

Step4-: Competitors- :you should understand your competitors and try to be better than them to stay in the competition.

Step5-: Brand Persona-:It is humanizing the brand .example -:Zara. We imagine a person wearing Zara to be elegant ,decent and sophisticated so from brand patronage we can judge people's characteristics.

Step6-: Objective/core value. Example -:Raymonds. It wants to be a luxury brand and highlights family values in people's life.

Step7-: Brand identity.i.e.how can we judge a brand or identity it by its color, symbol and typography .it is nothing but elements that makes a brand different from another brands.

The elements are

- A) Colour
- B) Photographs/Images
- C) Typography
- D) Style and layout
- E) Tone and Voice

Step 8-: Marketing &advertising- :Think how you advertise uniquely &understand the psychology and perception of people after receiving the information via your advertisements.

4. Startup Idea Contest

Report on: The Start-Up Idea Contest, 2019.

Armaan Madhani

Ria Chandnani

The Startup and Innovation Cell of the Ness Wadia College of Commerce organized the “Startup Idea Contest”, which took place on 7th September, 2019. The event started off with a welcome speech delivered by Tanaya Ingale a volunteer of the cell. In her speech Tanaya, acknowledged the judges, teachers, volunteers and the participants about the Startup and Innovation Cell and laid out the agenda for the contest being held. Tanaya then requested Dr. Prakash N. Chaudhary, Vice Principal, Associate Professor and Head, Dept. of Business Law to address the audience. In his address to the audience, Dr. Chaudhary appreciated the efforts of all the volunteers Startup and Innovation Cell who put in all the efforts and hard work in organizing such events and giving an opportunity to the students of the college, to participate and gain experience which would be fruitful of their future that lies ahead of them today. He also motivated the participants to continue to come up new ideas and technological innovations which might one day become long term sustainable business's providing solutions to upcoming problems in the industry.

Tanaya then introduced the two judges for the contest. The first judge was Shri Yogesh Shinde, social entrepreneur and co-founder of Bamboo India. Bamboo India is an Indian Startup founded on 15th August 2016 in Pune by Mr. and Mrs. Shinde. Their aim was to provide people with an alternative to plastic products. Hence they came with innovative bamboo products such as - Bamboo toothbrush, bamboo ear buds, bamboo straws and many more. Their mission is to reduce plastic waste by replacing plastic products with similar bamboo products and create a positive impact on many people's lives. Prior to joining the Bamboo India Mission, Mr. Yogesh Shinde spent 14 years in the IT Industry working for many companies such as- Barclays, T-Mobile, Vodafone and so on across the globe in Germany, London and many European countries as well as Indian cities. During this time he worked in various roles including that of developer, team leader, manager, onsite delivery manager and Assistant Vice President. All along he wanted to give back to society and his country, this is the reason he gave up his corporate career and pursued entrepreneurship. The second judge was Mr. Rohit Oswal. Rohit Oswal along with Tejas Shah, a technology and fashion savvy duo who saw a great opportunity in the men's clothing business realized that serious dearth of options for regular wear t-shirts by Indian brands. They found that within the few brands that did offer quality and variety, there was a gap in how and where the materials were sourced from. After several months of research, they formed the Outlier Clothing brand which is not only effective in the way it looks and feels but can be worn with a clear conscious. Outliers t-shirts have an Indian feel through designs, international standards in quality and zero exploitation of farmers that grow the cotton for the apparel as well as our environment. Rohit Oswal has also co-founded another firm in 2019 known as- Perpetual Wealth Management, where they offer services like mutual fund investing, portfolio management services, insurance, loans, etc. Then Dr. Chaudhary presented the judges with a rose bud and welcomed them to our college as an expression of gratitude for spending their precious time mentoring and guiding us. After this Krupa Asher another volunteer of the cell addressed the audience with an explanation about the various rules, regulations and protocols that the participants must follow while presenting their startup business idea.

The first participant was Prathamesh Jakka from TY-BBA (IB). His idea was about a device/equipment called 'Light Painter'. It is a tool that enhances photo quality by making use of light painting technology. It solves the problem of faced by other similar equipment's including fragility, heavy weightless, single color exposure and biggest problem of all exorbitant prices. His device was multi-purpose equipment which finds it use in the photography and cinematography industry. The products target markets would be pre-wedding shoots, video photography, etc.

The second participant was Rajesh Ramakant Bardapure a student of TYBcom. His idea was one which would help making spoken English classes more efficient. He noticed that these classes don't generate good results due to the attitude of the teachers. So to solve this problem he developed an app which would help in taking these classes online with the best tutors that would be trained by his company to have a better attitude and teaching style.

The participants of the third team were Ashish Vegdani and Ajay Sutar from TY-BBA. Their idea was to create an application named Dr. Dhobi, which would provide an online platform for laundry services along with doorstep pick up and drop facilities. Their competitive advantage would be reasonable pricing and fast delivery. Their target market includes hostel students, working individuals and housewives.

The fourth participant - Prathamesh Jakka – The next idea by Prathamesh was an affordable alternative to tools that are used to take time-lapse videos. It was a camera slider which had the technology which would help it move in various directions at the speed desired by the user. This slider would be able to calculate how many pictures to take over a certain period of time to get the time-lapse of the desired length. He showed the judges a video of the prototype created by him and one that he had created for personal use.

The fifth participant - Rajesh Ramakant Bardapure – His next idea was of a start-up idea for traditional and social media handling. He wanted to open an advertising office which would provide these advertising services to promote the client's business. At the end of the contract a report would be given to show the progress and if there is no progress then the fees would be refunded.

The participants of the sixth team were Kaustubh Meshram and Yash Sangpal from TYBBA. Their idea was to start a company named 'Mesh Marketing Solutions Pvt. Ltd', which would offer social media market services along with competitive market research analysis, client funding as well as brokering funding for startup ideas between entrepreneurs and investors.

The seventh team participating were Anandita Mitra and Shubham Thorat from TYBBA. Their idea was to launch an online platform 'Tennis Cult' providing services to athletes and sports enthusiasts. The features of the platform include advance court bookings at reasonable prices, training by professional coaches, etc. covering various geographic localities in northern India.

The eighth team included Guru Govind Mahesh and Sadhana Singh, students from TYBBA. Their idea was a way to wash people's cars more conveniently and save water along the way. It would be an app based service which would connect the vehicle users and vehicle cleaning operators directly. It would help create an online payment platform for the same and would help the owner get their vehicles washed professionally at their own specified time.

The ninth contestant was Prathamesh Jakka, his idea rose out of a personal need. Being an ex-engineering student, he was often stuck writing multiple assignments by hand. It was necessary for these assignments, which were generally just copied to have his handwriting. So he decided to create a printer which would be able to print in one's own handwriting. Here, you would have to input a sample of your own handwriting and then the documents that you wish to write on a word document. The printer would print the document in the handwriting of the user.

The last team to participate in the contest was Karan Pawar and Shubham Thorat from TYBBA. Their idea I called “Fresh Mart” and would be a competitor to Big Basket and Grofers. The biggest difference in their business model would be that Fresh Mart would be an online platform that would source fruits and vegetables directly from the farmers. They would deliver fresh produce and as they would be connected directly to the farmer, their costs would also be considerably lower.

This marked the end of the contest and after tallying up the points given by both the judges, Anandita Mishra and Shubham Thorat stood first for ‘Tennis Cult’ and Prathamesh Jakka secured second place for his handwriting printer.

The judges then gave certain remarks to the contestants that would help them do better in the future. Shri Yogesh Shinde asked the students to be more confident while presenting and to have all their market research ready. H H

He also told them that it was essential to have estimated costs and pricing presented while sharing their business idea. Overall, he encouraged them to keep working on their ideas and to develop them into revenue generating businesses.

6. Guest Lecture on Intellectual Property for Business (27th September, 2019)

Speaker: Mr. Shridhar Kulkarni,
Co-Founder, LegaLogic Consulting Pune

On 27 September the Department of Business Laws organized a lecture on Intellectual Property for Business. The lecture was delivered by Mr. Shridhar Kulkarni, Co-Founder, LegaLogic consulting Pune's leading corporate legal consultancy firm established six and a half years ago.

The event began with his introduction by a student, Mr. Armaan Asif Madhani, TY BBA and felicitation by Dr. Mariam Noronha who coordinated the conduct of the event. Mr. Kulkarni began his talk by explaining the term "intellectual property" which consists of 3 parts:-

- A. Product of human creation
- B. It Comprises of two distinct forms:-
 - a) Artistic work and b) industrial property

He also explained the different types of intellectual property:-

1. Invention

It is a new product that comprises an innovative step for the application. It is protected by a patent which an exclusive right is granted so that no one uses his invention without his consent.

2. Artistic work

It is creating something new in the field of art like writing a book, drawing, publishing new music, etc.

3. Symbol logo

It means giving a logo to a product but no one can use that logo except its company.

C. Registration of the same

He further explained "design registration" which means having a design or shape or a pattern of a specific product to be registered and marketing in such a way that the field is known by

For example - Bisleri is a company that sells packaged water, packaged water is an industry but people usually ask for Bisleri instead of a packaged water bottle, similarly people ask for a Xerox instead of a photocopy.

Design registration offers the advantages of an increase in market potential, promotion of creativity and safeguarding the features of the product. The requisites are it must be new and must not be disclosed to the public.

He then discussed trademark as a symbol, word, signature, name, etc. which helps to distinguish between one brand and another. He also gave a classic example of Kirloskar which is a surname and got its name after a long presence and hearing from court otherwise a surname can't be given as a brand name.

The next topic was non-patentable inventions in India:-

- A. Which are frivolous in the eyes of the law
- B. Method for agriculture
- C. Inventions related to sonic energy
- D. Duplication of known devices

He later explained a new concept evolving in today's world which is Geographical Indications (GIs) which means a product which originated from a specific territory and is known globally and with the help of the mark you have an edge over global competition. For example recent news of Kolhapuri chappal which has got its unique identification.

He continued to explain the importance of intellectual property as follows:-

1. Right to use
2. Right to sell
3. Right to prevent from others exploring
4. Right to licensing

He concluded the lecture by explaining about various international treaties which are based on intellectual property rights, like the Madrid treaty which helps to provide one single procedure for the registration of a mark in several countries and PCT (patent cooperation treaty) which helps to patent internationally and reduces cost.

The session ended with a question-answer session.

16. Webinar on “Humanising Brands”

6th June, 2020

Webinar on “Humanising Brands” in association with Department of Marketing

Speaker: Mr. Dhruv Talwar, General Manager, Corporate Brand, Godrej Consumer Products Ltd

Mr. Talwar spoke on the importance of “humanizing” a brand. His talk was peppered with a number of examples from everyday life at airports, dealing with your neighborhood kirana store, food delivery services, airlines and support staff. His talk helped everyone understand the importance of delivering value and adding the human touch to marketing initiatives. 56 students and 5 teachers attended.
